

Jason Summers LEEDAP, NCIDQ
Senior Associate

Jason is a designer who thrives on the fast-paced creative process of integrating brands to the built environment. He joins the Praxis3 team as the Director of Interiors and Branding, which allows the expansion of Praxis3 service offerings. With more than 20 years of interior design and brand development experience with firms such as Gensler, HOK and ASD/SKY, Jason has been responsible for a wide range of national award-winning projects that have helped redefine and advance the brands with which he's worked with. Jason believes in a holistic design approach that focuses on problem solving design solutions that provide a memorable experience for the end user. He believes that design is more than aesthetics, and he works with clients to understand their challenges, using various inputs and skills to develop great design solutions. Utilizing his diverse design background in architecture, interiors and graphic design, Jason combines an understanding of human behavior with the exploration of environmental, architectural, signage and graphic design solutions to create projects with user experiences that are cohesive as they are comprehensive.

Jason has been a board member with the International Interior Design Association (IIDA) and has worked with the AIA and AIGA associations. Jason is also a frequent guest speaker and studio juror for Savannah College of Art & Design, Georgia State University and Georgia Tech and Florida State University.

Jason is a graduate of the Virginia Commonwealth University where received a Bachelor of Arts in Interior Design. In addition, Jason studied Architecture and Graphic Design at Savannah College of Art & Design. He worked for Ai from 1997-1999, Gensler from 1999- 2002, HOK from 2002-2007, ASD/SKY from 2007- 2015 and now Praxis3.

On the weekends you can find Jason with his 2 sons and wife out exploring nature or on an adventure with his Cubscouts as he has been leading a local Cubscout Pack for over 10 years now.
